Helping Field Workers

For the second year in a row, TWR MOTION assisted the Media to Movements training coalition in equipping field teams. Five teams gathered October 17-19 at Pioneers headquarters in Orlando to learn and encourage each other. Rachel guided the teams through creating social media ads and filming testimonies on a phone. Andrew shared creative problem solving on videos with limited resources. Each session was practical with hands-on application of new skills. Everyone built a video, posted it on social media and tracked responses to the good news about Jesus.

Missionaries harnessing social media learned best practices to use and share. Some are based in South and Central Asia while teams in Canada and England reach immigrants from closed countries.

We enjoyed meeting our Indonesian Share the Story contact in person. After a year of testing and updates, that script is almost ready to record.

This year's Orlando event was for five teams who couldn't make the main Media to Movements summit. November 13-21 Candace and Rachel led sessions on creating gospel media for 40 field workers in Senegal, West Africa.

Visiting Churches

Over the next 12 months, we're showing the new TWR MOTION documentary The Best Possible Idea at as many churches as we can to engage with people in person. The last weekend of September, Andrew spoke at Calvary Chapel International Worship Center in Maryland, the church he was a member of growing up.

The first weekend of November, we both attended East Cooper Baptist Church's annual missions conference. This was the fourth time we've participated at the event and this was easily our favorite year.

Assignment: Rome

As Andrew wrapped up our last Sunday session at East Cooper, Holly left a few minutes early for the Charleston, S.C. airport to catch a flight to Rome for the team leader gathering for all the US and international Antioch church planting teams.

She met fellow leaders across the Antioch movement as they worshiped together and encouraged each other. Holly has served as Antioch Raleigh missions director for four years, and this was an opportunity to put many more faces to names and build personal relationships instead of just more online messages and remote meetings.

As you can see from the pictures, there were serious times of spiritual business during the day plus some opportunities to see amazing works of art such as St. Peter's Basilica.

We're thankful to have ministry opportunities we share as well as some callings where God uses our unique talents in separate arenas. Stay tuned next year as there are some opportunities on the horizon to bring us together in service for both TWR and Antioch. Thank you for your faithful prayers and gifts that make all the ministry possible.

Merry Christmas,

Andrew & Holly
